It was 1:00am. The family got up to clean and get ready. When it was 2:00am Angela and her family went to the airport. When they arrived Angela's mom thought they were late but they were very lucky because the plane was delayed, which meant they had time to relax and eat.

The next day, Angela wore her shiny purple skirt like always, with blue and red flowers printed down the sides. The shiny purple shirt was covered in lightning blue snowflakes. She also wore her shiny bracelet and necklace.

Angela ate her breakfast. Angela and her family all ate bog eggs with white bright circles that surrounded the yellow sticky yolk. She really enjoyed dunking the brown bread inside the egg and watching the yolk ooze out of the sides. It reminded her of a volcano.

After Breakfast, it was nearly time for the Roller Skate Competition. Angela had to quickly get ready and change her clothes. They all piled into the car and went to the venue of the competition. It was so big and it had a sign outside that said Roller Skate Competition 2018. Angela became so excited and nervous. Her stomach felt like it had butterflies flying around inside. She saw some of her friends who were also taking part, but for some reason they pulled a mean face at Angela, which made her feel sad. Angela knew it was Elsa that had made her friends do this. Angela and Elsa were enemies, well Angela didn't have problem but for some reason Elsa had never liked Angela.

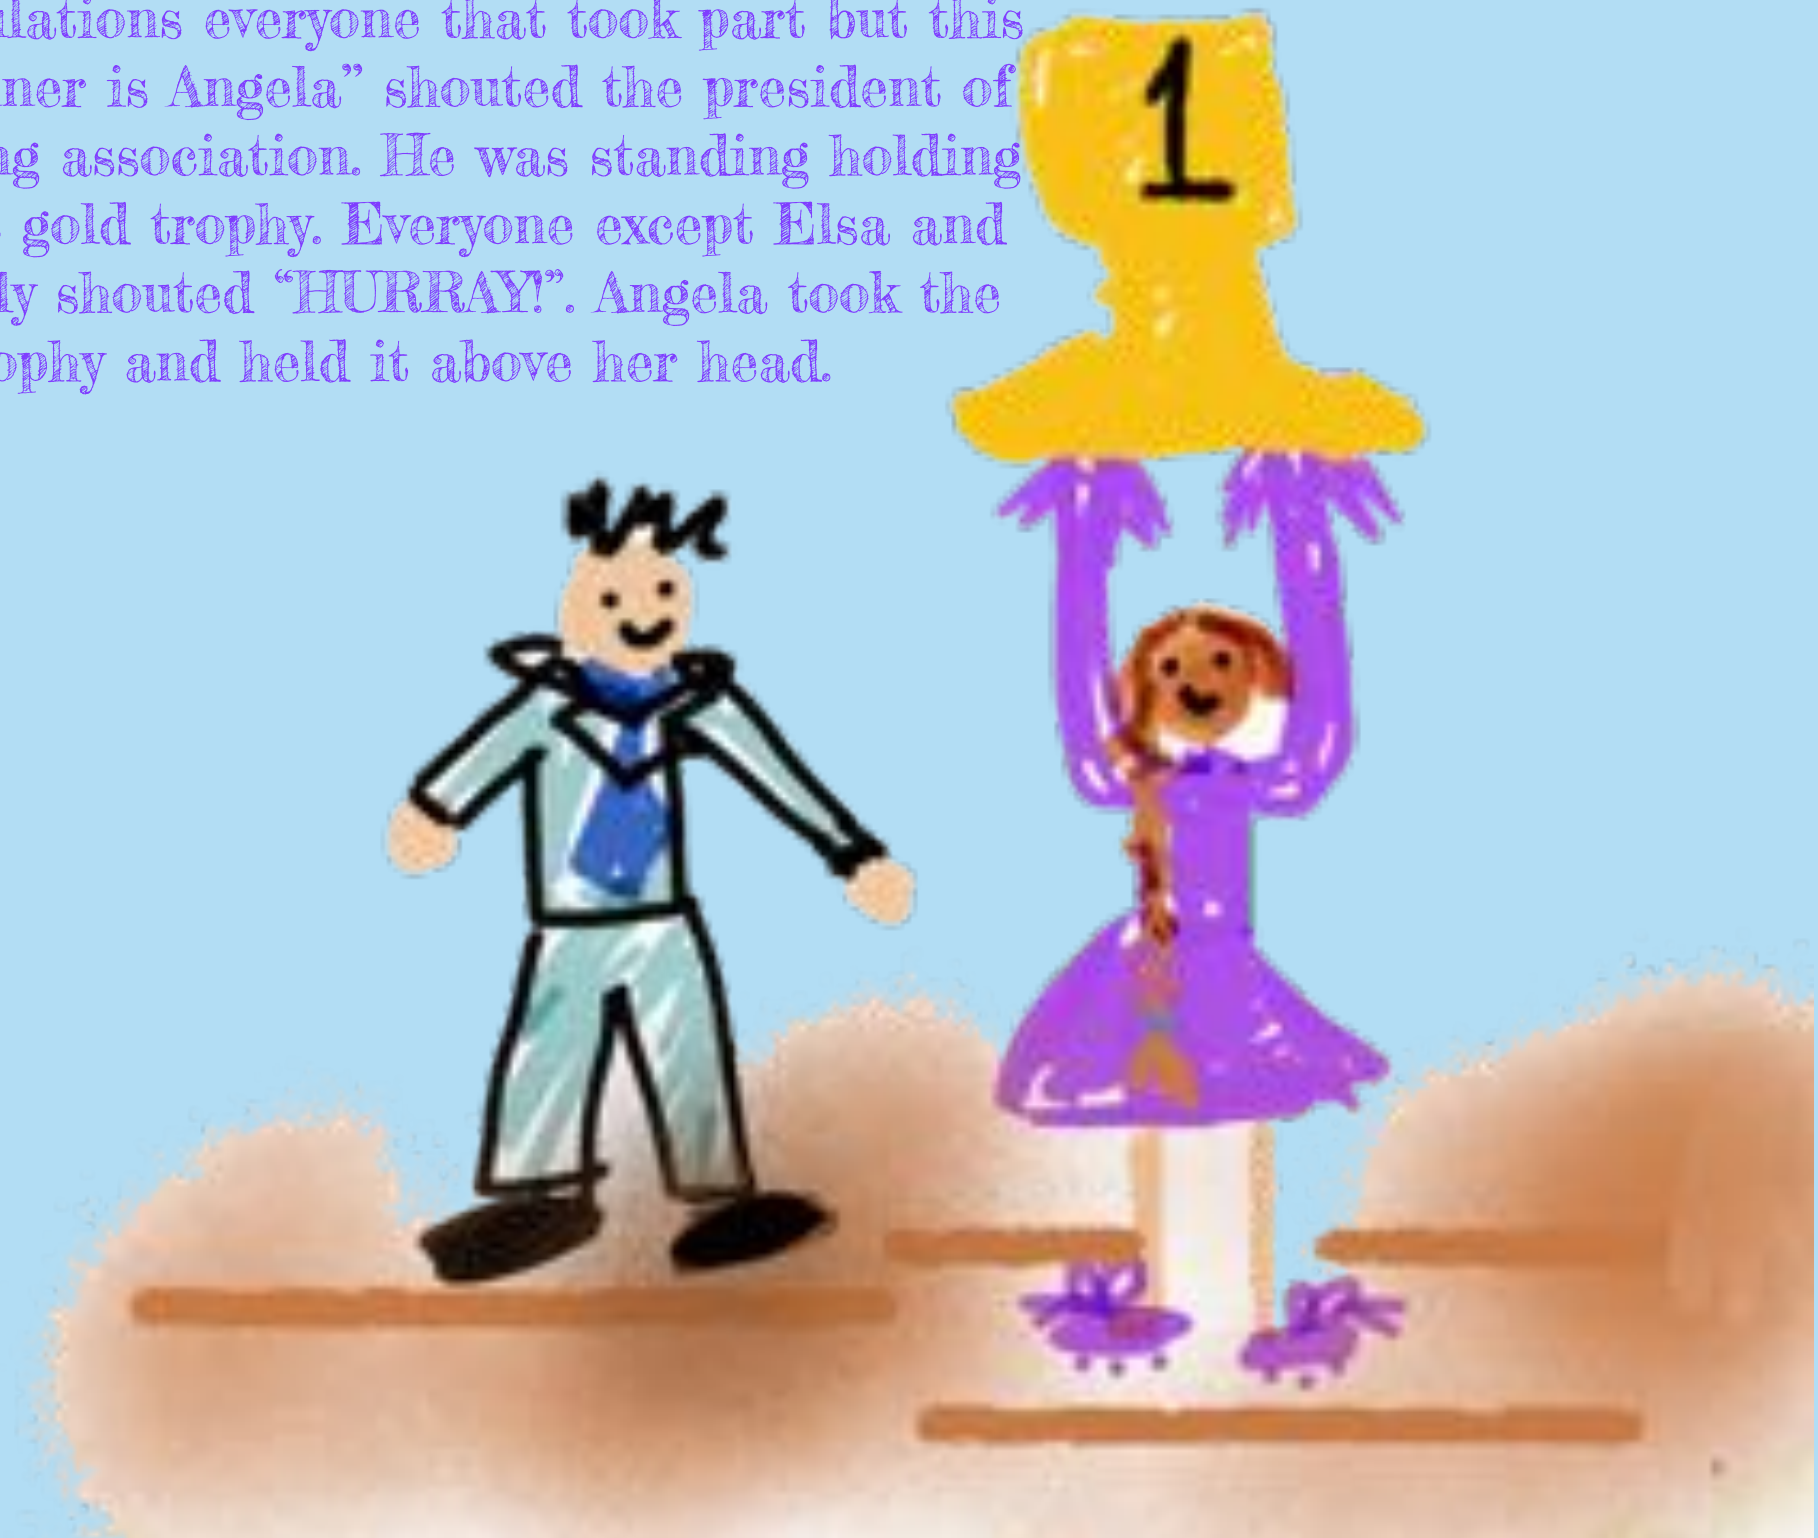

Soon it was time for all the contestants to go on stage. Every body yelled; “WOO HOO, YEAH, YEAH”. When Angela started to do her special tricks that she had been practicing all summer, Elsa came next to her and said “I am the best roller skater you aren’t”. After Elsa said this she kicked Angela and Angela fell to the floor with a big bang. Angela was so sad that she nearly started to cry.

Suddenly Angela heard her family shout “GET UP YOU CAN DO IT”. When Angela heard her family’s voice she felt good again and stood up. Angela was now determined to win. This was her moment to be brave and teach Elsa a lesson for being mean. She started to skate and performed amazing tricks after amazing trick. She was doing things she could never do before.

When the competition finished all the girls gathered together to wait for the results. “Congratulations everyone that took part but this years winner is Angela” shouted the president of the skating association. He was standing holding the giant gold trophy. Everyone except Elsa and her family shouted “HURRAY!”. Angela took the trophy and held it above her head.

This was the best day of Angela's life! She will never forget this moment. Angela felt so happy she got to share it with her wonderful family.
